

JR STUDIO DESIGN BIO

JOEL ROBARE | PRINCIPAL

Joel Robare is recognized for his innate creativity, open approach, attention to detail and superior service in interior design. When asked about his approach, Joel admits that for every space he touches, he listens to his clients to understand their personalities before even thinking about design. His devoted attention allows him to tailor solutions for space planning and custom design fabrications perfectly suited to his client's signature life and style.

Starting with a degree in Business Management & Merchandising in Chicago he continued his education in California, studying an additional 4 years for a certificate in Interior Architecture & Design. Working with large residential design firms as well as small luxury studios has furthered his foundations in the industry. His unique mix of business savvy, creative expertise and professional experience reveals an ability to deliver great design parallel to his understanding of managing successful projects. Joel expertly balances practicality and artistic vision, creating his successful philosophy for design: Unparalleled Modern Living—exceptional interiors for today's lifestyles.

His intense devotion to his craft is fully supported by a talented, focused and professional staff working out of his design studios in San Francisco & Chicago. It is Joel's mission, through JR Studio, to design home and work spaces that are both expressive and functional...because he truly believes that an interior is only beautiful if it is lived in to its fullest potential.

Joel has a personal passion for living style and travels constantly to explore new corners of the world, bringing back enthusiasm and fresh perspective for the interiors he creates.
